COMPULSORY ARBITRATION.

The Chilians on Record as Opposed to it—Their Reasons.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The World's Washington special says: The Chilian members of the Pan-American conference have put on record in the archives of the commission, their formal opinion adverse to a compulsory arbitration treaty, which was proposed and adopted by the conference and signed by several of the delegates, but not by all. This paper they intend to send to all Chilian representatives in other countries to be placed on record there as expressing the deliberate judgment of the Chilian Government. The document objects to the scheme, because while the Chilian Government favors the arbitration of international questions and has shown by dates and instances, that it frequently and habitually resorts to this method of compulsory arbitration, they said it would produce, if carried into effect, more difficulties and more perpicious results than those which it purposes to obviate or avoid, and those results would weaken and in the end destroy the efficiency of a system of arbitration the strengthening of which was desired, and whose efficiency and authority when timely resorted to, all nations are interested in preserving.

BEHRING SEA DIFFICULTY

THE BRITISH PROPOSITION FOR SETTLEMENT REJECTED.

No Resentment or Undue Harshness to be Shown to British Sealers—The Governments Brought a Little Nearer Together—A Joint Commission.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The Herald's Washington special says: I learn that at the cabinet meeting yesterday it was decided to reject the British proposition submitted three weeks ago for the settlement of the Behring Sea question. Secretary Windom, as I am informed, was decidedly opposed to the acceptance of the proposal from the first, because its provisions were deemed by him entirely inadequate to secure the professed object of preserving seal life in Behring Sea, and second, because it ignored the established position of the United States in that sea.

Secretary Blaine did not advocate an acceptance of the proposal, and thought it probable that further negotiations would abate Canadian contentions and improve the position of the United States. The British proposal being without support from either of the two departments, immediately concerned, with it necessarily met with rejection, a like fate with that which overtook the preceding American proposal in the council of the Governor-General of Canada.

I understand that in neither case was an acceptance of the proposal anticipated by the party submitting it, but that the only result, expected from the exchange of proposals, was the bringing of the parties a little nearer together by the elimination of some of the points of difference to some extent. According to my information this expectation has been realized, so the negotiations are really in a better state notwithstanding the rejection of counter proposals than at the beginning. I am advised that the next step in the negotiations will be the discussion and settlement of details in connection with the creation of a joint committee of experts to prepare and submit to the two governments a full and particular project as a basis of a treaty by which the whole question can be permanently settled. It is possible that the Government of Russia may be represented on this commission of experts, but that is a matter which has not yet received any consideration, and is altogether likely to be governed by the wishes of that government at proper time. In any and all events there is a confident expectation that the treaty can be framed in time for submission to the Senate immediately upon the opening of second session of the present Congress.

The more important question for the cabinet yesterday, was that of an ad interim policy to be pursued in Behring Sea with immediate reference to the sealing season, which will be in full headway by the end of this month. The treasury view was that inasmuch as the British Government had admitted a close season to be necessary and had offered as part of its proposal a radius around the seal Islands to protect female seals from attacks, while obtaining food in the waters adjacent to the Rocky Islands, it would be admissable and proper to enforce by warning and by restraint after the warning had proved ineffectual in any case, such closure during the present season, relying upon the good sense and disposition of the British Government to acquiesce in a measure so entirely reasonable and merely provisional. This view prevailed. The commanders of the cruising vessels will be emphatically enjoined to refrain, so far as possible within the line of their instructions, from any conduct toward British sealers whom they meet with, that can be made the occasion of just complaint or resentment. These instructions will be communicated to the British Government in order that the Canadian authorities may take any action they may deem advisable toward the common end of maintaining the peace and amity from now till the close of the season.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The World's Washington special says, Secretary Windom, in conversation with a World correspondent to-night gave a very emphatic denial to all reports indicating that there is to be any lack of vigor in the execution this summer, of the laws against seal poaching in Behring Sea. If any modus vivendi has been arranged between England and the United States said he, "I don't know of it." If any arrangement has been made under which the execution of the laws would be postponed I don't know of it. You can say positively that I have given no instructions against the seizure of vessels engaged in unlawful seal fishing. On the contrary three revenue marine vessels, the Bear, Rush and Corwin, have been ordered to Behring Sea to protect the seal fisheries, and as long as the revenue marine and protection of seal fisheries of Alaska remain in my charge, I will protect the fisheries and execute the laws to the best of my ability. Section 3 of the law of March 2, 1889, reads as follows: "That section 1956, revised statutes of the U. S., is hereby declared to include and apply to all dominions of the United States in the waters of Behring Sea, and it should be the duty of the President, at any timely season in each year, to issue his proclamation and cause the same to be published for one month in one newspaper, if any such be published at each United States port of entry on the Pacific coast, warning all persons from entering these waters for the purpose of violating the provisions of the said section, and he shall also cause one or more vessels of the United States to diligently cruise said waters and arrest all persons and seize all vessels found to be, or to have been, engaged in any violation of the laws of the United States therein."

"The law is mandatory and very clear and emphatic," said the secretary, "and it will be executed as long as it is law."

WHAT MINISTER PAUNCEFOTE SAYS.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The Herald's Washington special says: I called at the British legation to-night and submitted to Minister Pauncefote for his perusal, the instructions to Capt. Healey of the the revenue cutter. He read them very carefully, but declined to express any opinion about them. He said he did not regard himself as either authorized or qualified to comment upon the domestic affairs of the Government to which he is accredited, and had not understood that the instructions to Capt. Healey, were in any way connected with the negotiations now in progress concerning the Behring Sea question.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION.

Miss Willard Speaks About the Question of Prohibitory States.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—Miss Francis E. Willard, President of the National Woman's Temperance Union, is in the city to attend the statement meeting of the union. In the course of a lengthy interview on the whisky question in general she touched upon the recent original package decision of the United States Court and said there is nothing to discourage us and when fugitive States the law passed and the decision was given all looked dark to the workers for freedom. Nothing, however, could have happened so helpful to the cause as when it was decided by the highest legal authority in America that the negroes had no rights that a white man was was not bound to respect, that was the crack of doom to the slave power. Now if a prohibitory state has no laws that the United States is bound to respect, and this is exactly the force of of the Supreme Court decision. It will prove the crack of doom to the whiskey oligarchy. If politicians know the day of their salvation they will hurry through the bill exempting prohibitory states from any action of interstate commerce law so far as the liquor traffic is concerned. If they do not, next fall's elections will make lively fighting all along the line. People in prohibitory states like Iowa and and Kansas are apt to become provincial, but this decision obligates them to to cast their eyes towards the horizon. It makes prohibition national with the nation with a big capital "N."

CONSPIRACY TO TAKE LOWER CALIFORNIA.

A Big Scheme to Overthrow the Government of Lower California.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—A special dispatch from Los Angeles this morning says that complete details of the conspiracy to capture Lower California and found an independent republic has just been unearthed. The revelations made are of the most astounding character as they involve a number of prominent capitalists interested in Lower California lands and mines, and well known citizens of San Diego, which place seems to have been the headquarters of the fillibusters. At that city all the plans were arranged by the conspirators whereby the present authorities governing the peninsula by virtue of the appointment from President Diaz, of Mexico, were to be overthrown and the republic of Lower California declared. For three months the fillibusters have been busily engaged conceiving and perfecting all details of their plot. This work has been done in San Diego where numerous meetings of interested parties have been held. It was through one of these gatherings that the first intimation of the existence of the conspiracy reached any one who had not first been pledged never to reveal any of the subjects discussed at the meeting. Evidence to establish the truth of the revelations that are here given are in the possession of the proper Government officer. The great power behind the fillibustering movement is the Mexican Land and Colonization Company. This corporation is composed of wealthy Englishmen. They own and control concessions on the peninsula made by the Mexican Government to the International Co. of Mexico. For several years the affairs of both the companies have been in a most complicated condition. The officers of the corporation claim that this condition has been due to the fact that the Mexican officials on the peninsula from the governor down have been bleeding the very life out of them by pursuing their policy in the management of the Government affairs detrimental to the land interest of the company. To circumvent this the company has been forced to expend thousands of dollars for the salvation of the company. They assert finally that it depends upon the securing and annexation of Lower California to the United States. A paid lobbyist is now in Washington working under the direction of the corporation to bring this about as prospects of any action being taken by Congress are decidedly slender, and as the disposition of the Mexican Government is to preserve the integrity of its domain. The Mexican Land Colonization company grasped at the fillibustering scheme like a drowning man at a straw.

GENERAL DISPATCHES.

THE NEW U. S. TARIFF BILL PASSES—A CLOSE VOTE.

All Germans Must Qualify for Soldiers—The New Bill Will Increase the Army Strength by 37,000 Men—Villard and the Wisconsin Central Deal.

BERLIN, May 22.—The army bill was again up for consideration before the Budget committee in the Reichstag today. It was explained to the committee by Minister of War General Verdmuerder Quvrenois the measure aimed to qualify all Germans for military service. The passage of the bill he said would give the empire 37,000 more soldiers.

Villard Again.

BOSTON, May 22.—The Wisconsin Central people in Boston will neither confirm or deny the reported sale of the Wisconsin Central terminal to Mr. Villard. In other quarters it is now stated that Villard in purchasing these terminals and selling them to Germany is enabling the Standard Oil and S. J. Tilden's interests to get out of Chicago and the Great Western company. Villard is in this way also discharging his obligations to these interests for assisting him to regain control of the Northern Pacific.

Tariff Bill Carried.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.—The vote in the House on the third reading and engrossment of the tariff bill resulted in yeas 161, nays 141.

Plunged Through a Bridge.

LEWISTON, Maine, May 22.—Latter despatches confirm the killing of Supt. Twohey of the Upper Coos Railroad and a section man, name unknown. Both men were on the engine looking out for danger when it plunged forty feet through a bridge at the cove brook near Stratford and their bodies were buried beneath the engine.

Steamboat Collision.

NEW YORK, May 22.—About 8 o'clock this morning the steamer J. B. Schuyler, bound on her regular excursion to the fishing banks, was run into by the Bay Ridge steamer off Battery. Both vessels were under full headway at the time and the Schuyler was struck fairly amidships on the port side, smashing her paddle box and tearing a great hole in her guard. The Queen had her bow carried away. Both steamships had passengers on board and for a time a panic was imminent. It was reported that several persons were injured, but this has not yet been verified. The Schuyler returned to her pier and the Queen was towed to Bay Ridge, where she laid up.

Shot His Wife.

JESSUP, Ga., May 22.—At midnight last night a tragedy took place here which resulted in the death of Mrs. P. B. Littlefield and County Surveyor McCall of Ware at the hands of the woman's husband. McCall came to Jessup last night and stopped at Littlefield's house. About 11 o'clock he retired to his room, undressed, came out again and went down stairs and enquired for Mr. Littlefield. When he could not find that gentleman he went to Mrs. Littlefield's room and was admitted. Mr. Littlefield, who had been on the front porch watching the pair, rushed into the room and shot and killed her instantly. He then shot McCall four times, inflicting wounds from which he died a few hours later. McCall was about fifty years old and had a large family. Littlefield is about the same age and leaves a wife five years younger. The family originally came from Massachusetts but have lived in Jessup, where they were highly respected, for about twenty years.

VICTORIA VS. SEATTLE.

An Easy Walk-Over for the Amities—Mills Pitches Well.

The general opinion expressed this morning was that the first international base ball game of the season would have to be played in the rain as the clouds looked very threatening, but when the Seattle team appeared on the field at 10 o'clock the rain had not yet started, nor did it start during the game. Many thought that Seattle would be represented by a better club, and consequently not much money changed hands on the result. The Victoria team was composed chiefly of James Bay boys, and by the way they played it was evident that Thos. Baker, who has managed the club, has done some good work. Mr. Edwards umpired the game in his usual fair manner to the satisfaction of both sides. The Amities won the toss and went out in the field.

FIRST INNINGS.

From the beginning of this innings it was evident the Amities were going to put up a good game, as when Lloyd came to the bat he was easily struck out by Mills. Dean knocked a fly, but was put out on first. Mathias knocked a liner to first and was put out.

SECOND HALF OF THE FIRST.

Geo. Gowen was the first to come to the bat for the Amities, he went to first on balls, but was left on a base. Jackson knocked a fly to centre field and managed to get to second, where he was put out. Hannan was struck out.

SECOND INNINGS.

In the second innings Scott knocked a fly, which was nicely caught by Hannan. Sweeney was struck out. Hagermiller got to first on balls and managed to score by errors, this being the first run made. Hamlin got to first on balls, but was put out on second, making the side out.

Borthwick came to the bat for the Amities and made a three-bagger, scoring the first run for Victoria. Gouge, Gus Gowen and Widdowson all managed to get to first, but where put out without scoring.

THIRD INNING.

Kenney and Nunan were both put out on third by Borthwick and Wishart. Lloyd was also put out and Dean was struck out.

For the Amities, Wishart made first on an error, and Mills got there on balls; Gus. Gowen made a base hit, bringing in Wishart and Mills. Jackson made a three base hit and managed to score before Borthwick was put out by a fly, and Gouge had got to second before he was put out. The score stood four to one in favor of the Victorians, and the Seattleites seemed to lose heart.

FOURTH INNING.

Mills began to show himself in this inning and managed to strike out Mathias and Hagermiller. Sweeney knocked a fly which was caught.

Gus. Gowen came to the bat for the Amities, and kept up the reputation of the Gowen boys by making a home run. Widdowson, Wishart and Mills managed to score, making 7 runs for the Amities. Geo. Gowen was put out by a fly, and Jackson managed to get to third by errors; but was unable to reach home. Hannon was struck out.

FIFTH INNING.

Mills got down to work and managed to strike out three men leaving two on the base.

The Amities managed to run their score up to 12 in this inning, and the game began to get a little monotonous, the boys having their own way, and not trying very hard to score, but Mills was determined that Seattle should not score, and he was successful as they did not do so. During the inning Wishart made a pretty three-bagger, both Gouge, Borthwick, Gus. Gowen and Mills making two base hits.

SIXTH INNINGS.

Mathias got to first on four balls, and scoring the last run for the Seattles. Scott was struck out, and Sweeney and Hagermiller were both caught out by fly hits. The Amities took little interest in the game at this stage and began to fool, and were put out without scoring, although Widdowson got to second and Gus Gowen knocked a long fly.

SEVENTH INNINGS.

Hamlin was put out by a fly and Kenny knocked a liner which was neatly stopped by Widdowson, who got the ball to first just in time. Nunan knocked a fly which was caught by Widdowson after a long run. Mills, Gus Gowen and Jackson all found the leather but did not get home.

EIGHTH INNINGS.

Lloyd, Dean, Mathias and Scott reached second but came a long way from reaching home before they were put out. Hannan came to the bat for the Amities and succeeded in reaching home, but on account of not having touched the base after a foul he was ruled out. Borthwick and Gouge were both put out by fouls.

NINTH INNINGS.

Hamlin, Kenney and Dean were struck out in this innings, Hagermiller, Nunan and Lloyd reaching first and not scoring. This left the game to the Amities, who had an inning to spare.

SCORE BY INNINGS.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Amities	0	0	4	3	7	0	0	0	–	14
Seattle	0	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	2

Struck out by Mills 22, by Dean 3. Home runs, Gus Gowen. Three base hits Jackson, Wishart. Two base hits, Geo. Gowen, Gouge, Widdowson.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

It was admitted on all sides that Mills pitched a splendid game.

Manager Baker has evidently been giving the boys a few pointers and they played a good all around game this morning.

One of the veteran ball players remarked that he could see six inches difference in Thos. Baker's height after the game.

The small boys yelled as usual when their team scored or when the opposite did not.

It was quite a feature of the game to see the friendly manner in which the opponents treated one another and there was a lack of ill feeling among the crowd. The Seattle boys are evidently good fellows.

McMahon's Circus.

McMahon's circus arrived in town this morning on the steamer Ferndale, which they have specially chartered for the Sound leaving their special train at Seattle. This is their second visit here. They come this time with many new features. Among the most prominent are their two large elephants, Queen Jumbo and Romeo. They are the largest in the country, Queen being only four inches shorter than the late Jumbo, and both are performers, creating great astonishment, as they go through a number of intricate tricks with the ease and confidence that shows years of training have been expended in their education. These animals are perfectly docile in spite of the sensational account of their "stampede" which appeared in the Sound papers. They were only out for a run, but the incident was magnified considerably. About half past six this evening Prof. Redmond will make a balloon ascension in his air ship the "Triumph."

ADDRESS OF THE INDEPENDENT GOVERNMENT CANDIDATE.

Mr. Wilson Explains How He Failed to Receive the Government Nomination—Political Bossism Did It—Men Who Made Laws and then Broke Them.

A public meeting, called by Mr. Chas. Wilson, was held in the Victoria Theatre last evening. There was a fairly good attendance. On the platform were Messrs. C. E. Redfern, James Burns, Percy Brown, Walter Anderson, and — Brickmore.

Mr. Wilson came forward, and regarding the audience, said the night for the meeting had probably not been well chosen, it being so near the holidays. If those present wished, a chairman would be appointed, and the meeting go on.

Cries of "Go on," "The house will be full before long," etc.

Charles Redfern, Esq., was appointed chairman. He explained that all the other eight candidates had been invited to attend, and as Mr. Wilson did not intend to monopolize the whole evening with his speech, there would be ample opportunity for all candidates wishing to speak to be heard.

Mr. Wilson was received with applause. He thought perhaps it was necessary for him first to explain how he came not to have the support of either of the so-called political parties. There were in reality no parties in this Province, for parties were formed for the purpose of carrying out principles which it was impossible to accomplish by individual effort. As there was no such principles at stake in this Province there were practically no parties. Concerning his candidature—he explained that he was a member of the Liberal Conservative Association and one of the committee appointed to frame by laws and constitution for it. These were framed in accordance with and based on similar orginizations elsewhere. It provided for the election of a president and a working committee; it also provided that the selection of candidates should be made by the President and this working committee, not only for the House of Commons, but also for the Provincial Legislature. It was also provided that the selection should have to be made by a two-thirds vote of the Association. When it became necessary to select candidates for the Local Legislature, a meeting of the Association was called and a committee appointed to select candidates. This was in violation of the provisions of the constitution, which provided that this should be done by the President and the working committee only. The committee appointed at the meeting referred to, selected the candidates and these were endorsed at a general meeting also called in violation of the laws of the Association. The attempt was to introduce machine politics into this city and to make an improper use of a proper orginization. If the selection had been carried out properly he was not sure that he would not have been placed on the Government ticket. At the general meeting of the association to confirm the candidates, he was badly handicapped, those who went there going with the understanding that four men had been selected for them to vote on. When many of those present heard of the underhand manner in which this business had been conducted, they came to him and promised their support if he would offer himself, as well as many others on the following day. These men did not understand how the candidates could be entrusted with the government of the country when they had in this matter broken the laws of their own making. It might be asked what was an independent government supporter? In answer to that he had only to say that he would do as he had done before, he would not vote with the Government unless he considered their course a right and proper one. He had voted with the Government when he believed that to do so would advance the material progress of the Province and he would do so again. If it was to be expected that he was to "thumbs-up" whenever asked to do so, that he was to be on the end of a string, a sort of political marionette, he would ask the electors not to support him. He would not be such a member. Proceeding he discussed the Opposition platform as stated at Tuesday evenings meeting. As to an "honest executive," he supported that and expressed the opinion that we had an "honest executive" now. Monopoly in lands he was opposed to and to all other monopolies. Railways under government control was good in theory, but as to the government building and operating railways he was not exactly in accord with it. Every candidate that came forward for election he said had of course a panacea for the ills that the constituency suffered from, but without aiming at this he thought he might speak of a few things which the city of Victoria might well look to. First, a greater share of the public money for this city (hear, hear.) A university was talked of and he saw no reason why it should not be erected here, nor why an effort should not be made to secure it. Then there was the Indian reserve which an effort should be made to secure for this city. The Saanich and New Westminster railway should receive reasonable assistance. While other railways were receiving grants of land and money bonuses, why should not this road, which would confer great benifits on this city and Province also receive support? The fact that the citizens guaranteed interest on a large amount of the company's bonds, he regarded as evidence of the popular will in its favor. He pointed out that the State of Washington was being intersected by a net work of railways and as we had no such thing here, it was opportune that we should enquire as to the cause. One of the great causes for railway advancing over there, he believed, was the power given to railway companies to construct railways through government lands as freely as a ship could be sailed on the ocean. (Applause.) If there was less trouble and expense in railway companies going to work he believed it would be better for the Province. Every candidate who came forward also was for the time being, an ardent working man. He did not propose to put himself forward as the particular candidate of any class of men, but he would say this. He saw by the papers that the workingmen's platform of Vancouver demanded the adoption of the Oregon Lien law and as that law was working in a state with a very large population and as the working men of this Province appeared to want it, there was no reason why they should not have it. The public school system of British Columbia he believed to be a good one and to be carried out in its integrity. If he had been in the last legislature, however, he would have voted against the special impost placed on the cities for school purposes (applause). He did not believe in the mining royalties for the benefit of railway companies as proposed by the Government. It would be better for the Government to give the railway companies the minerals outright and then administer the lands in trust of the company. He was satisfied that the mining royalty business was a mistake and if not repealed would be one of the most lamentable things which ever befell the mining interests of this Province. He contended that the Government ticket was divided against itself. Was there, he asked, perfect harmony in either of the tickets? He was perhaps considered an interloper among his friends, but he hoped after the 13th of June there would be no occasion to suggest that. He asked again, was there perfect harmony among the Government ticket, the members of which he had already shown that they could not abide by laws of their own making? Imagine, said he, John Irving and the Hon. John Robson occupying the same political couch. How long was it that Messrs. Irving and Turner had come to admire each other and then Messrs. Duck and Dalby. There was no harmony in the Government ticket. It was simply one which political bosses were foisting on the people. On the Opposition ticket, he believed there was greater harmony than among the Government candidates, who were all old Opposition supporters (hear, hear, applause).

In respect to the Canadian Western, he pointed out that the charter would expire next year, and when it did he would recommend that it be renewed. As sure as the sun shone, railways that are looking for an enterance to the Pacific coast would take up the charter and push the construction of the road to completion, and when that was done Victoria would certainly become the commercial and railway centre of the Pacific Coast. Mr. Wilson, on concluding, was loudly applauded.

There being frequent calls for Davie, the Attorney-General came forward and said he would not discuss the political matters taken up by Mr. Wilson, but would refer briefly to the causes which led to Mr. Wilson offering himself as a candidate in support of the Government, especially when he did so in such a manner that their greatest enemy could not do a worse thing for them. Mr. Wilson had been scarcely accurate. The candidates were not brought out under the auspices of the Liberal-Conservative Association. But, if there was anything wrong in the meeting, or any violation of the constitution, Mr. Wilson was a party to it. He submitted his name to the meeting, and if he knew the constitution was being violated, he was not a friend when he did not say so. He proceeded to refute the statement that all the Government candidates had been turncoat oppositionists.

A voice—Yes they are; what about Dalby?

Mr. Davie—Mr. Wilson is with the Opposition. Those making the disturbance here are Opposition supporters. Mr. Wilson if elected would be quite willing to support the Opposition, he could blow hot and cold and was not a man who should be elected to the legislature. He claimed that the Opposition were supporting Mr. Wilson, but he would do them more harm than the Government. He appealed to all Government supporters to have nothing to do with him.

Mr. Wilson wished to explain, he said. Mr. Davie was a clever lawyer. he had drawn the red herring over the trail in a method more clever than he had ever seen him do it before, and he had seen him do it many times. The statement made by Mr. Davie was most disingenuous, to use the Attorney-General's favorite word. Either the committee of the Liberal-Conservative Association derived their authority from that body or they did not. If they did derive their authority from that body then they acted in violation of its constitution, which they were pledged to obey. If they did not then they were without authority to make any nomination on behalf of any party. The proceedings of the committee were not only irregular but struck at the principles of the constitution of the Association, which required the selection of candidates to be by the whole body, etc. Mr. Wilson was proceeding to excoriate Mr. Davie, when Mr. Willis Bond rose and went over to the Attorney-General to sympathize with him. The audience observing this simply roared.

When Mr. Wilson had concluded the Attorney-General and one or two others called for Mr. Bond, who ascended the platform. Mr. Wilson, however, suggested that Mr. Bond should defer his speech, and moved a vote of thanks to the chairman.

The meeting then adjourned.

ST. PETER WAS IN ROME.

To the Editor:—"A little learning is a dangerous thing," as it often leads to a display of ignorance on the part of him who is its possessor. Such seems to be the position of your correspondent "Evangel." Peter informs us in his second Epistle, Chapter III, Verse 16, that in the Epistles of St. Paul there "are certain things hard to be understood; which the unlearned and the unstable wrest, as they do also the other destruction." Let "Evangel" ponder over this and examine likewise what those noted Protestant historians Caves, Pearson, Hugo, Grotius, Usser, Blondell, Hammond, Basnage and Calvin himself have to say on the question whether St. Peter was in Rome. After he has "thoroughly mastered" these authors, let him speak up again.

Another Evangel.

THE CANDIDATES.

To the Editor of the Times, Sir,—I was present at both the political meetings held here lately, and was surprised and disappointed, I may almost say sickened, with the exhibition in both cases. Mr. Robson in his flowery style told us how satisfied the people were that he had visited, and then endeavored to show his railway policy in the best light it would bear. Mr. Davie followed, endeavoring to show that the bills passed were better than the Opposition would have passed. Mr. Turner, in a short and comprehensive speech, showed the finances to be in a good condition.

Then came the Opposition meeting. Mr. Beaven, in a clear and methodical way, showed the measures he criticized from a different point of view than had been taken by most of the folks before, and showed that the proposed railways might be built to advantage by the Government. Mr. Frank Richards did remarkably well for a new beginner, and made many friends. Dr. Milne did not do as well as I have heard him. Mr. Grant I did not hear, but he always does well.

What struck me with respect to both parties, with a slight exception, was their total want of a statesmanlike and comprehensive view of the vital questions which are now agitating the world. Are they blind, that they do not see the approaching wave that will swamp their cockle shells? All this shows the utter futility of expecting legislation from these men on the great questions which are stirring the world now to its utmost bounds. You would imagine that none of the candidates or the Government had ever heard of the revolution of feeling in regard to the land question, or that they had not seen or heard of the almost universal feeling that the present systems were tottering to their graves to give place to such general laws as will place all men on an equal footing as regards their chances of getting along in the world. Every man should read Henry George. I take it for granted that no sane man can read and understand the view there put forward without seeing that there lies the panacea for all our evils. They are so simple, yet so comprehensive, that they cannot fail to convince. Yet here we plod along with our little apple carts. The whole strife being who shall get into position and power. I said above, with one exception, Mr. Beaven seemed to have a sort of inkling that the present system of granting large blocks of land was wrong, but none of the rest seemed to have the slightest idea outside of catching some little flaw to carry their little cockle-shells safe into port. Gentlemen, enunciate some policy. Make it wide and far-reaching and one that you may conscientiously contend for whether you win or lose. The single tax is the system bound to prevail in the future. Take it up and you will get support from men who are apathetic on any of the local issues. Look outside of your own house and see how the brotherhood of man is asserting itself all over the world by mutual assistance in times of distress. See how other countries are adopting the principle of the single tax, and don't wait till an avalanche of public opinion buries you and your apple trembling beneath the debris of a rotten system. More anon. Vided.

A Warning.

Mr. Editor,—It is a well-known fact that the majority of people are inclined to look upon a cold in the head as a matter of little importance—involving at the most only a temporary inconvenience. No more disastrous mistake was ever made. The neglected cold in the head is the source of the catarrhal affections with which about seven-tenths of the people of this country are afflicted, and catarrh itself is too often the preliminary stages to consumption and death. The symptoms of catarrh are manifold, but among them may be mentioned, offensive breath; dull, oppressive headache; offensive droppings from the nostrils into the throat and bronchial tubes; deafness or partial deafness; constant hawking and spitting; weak and watery eyes; a hacking cough and feeling of general debility; ringing in the ears and frequent dizziness. These are but a few of the more general symptoms, and those who experience them should lose no time in applying a remedy. Delays are proverbially dangerous, and in the case of this too prevalent disease may lead to death. We offer Nasal Balm to the public as a positive cure for cold in the head and for catarrh in all its forms and stages. Nasal Balm has been tested in thousands of cases, and the testimonials in our possession prove that it is all we claim for it. It has cured other sufferers, it will cure you. It is easy to use, pleasant and agreeable and does not require a douche, or any torturing instrument to apply it. Give it a trial and be convinced of its great efficacy. African Palm Oil.

An interesting report comes from the governor of the gold coast on the palm oil industry of the west coast of Africa, says The Kew Bulletin. In cultivating the palm ripe nuts are scattered over the ground, well raked, and are then lightly covered with earth. The planting takes place in the rainy season. When the young shoots have grown about a foot they are carefully removed in the evening and transplanted at least fifteen feet apart. The tree grows luxuriantly and bears most abundantly at a height of from ten to twelve feet in damp, semi-marshy soil. The supply of nuts fit for use is biennial, and the most abundant supply of commercial oil is obtained from the nuts during the rainy season. The bunches of nuts are cut down and placed in a heap in the air, where they remain for a week or ten days. The joints of the nuts are thus weakened by decomposition and they can be detached by simply beating them against any substance.

When the nuts are collected those with a hard, unyielding pulp are placed in a hole about four feet deep, which is lined with plantain leaves and with palm leaves and earth. They are allowed to remain for periods varying between three weeks and three months, until a certain decomposition has taken place, so that when removed the pulp is soft, and appears as if it had been boiled. The nuts are now put in a trough made by digging a hole in the ground and paving it with rough stones. Here they are pounded with wooden pestles until the pulp is quite removed from the surface of the hard nut. The whole is then removed from the trough, put in a heap, and the stones taken out, leaving the oily fibrous pulp, which is put into a pot with a small quantity of water under a good fire, and well stirred until the oil begins to melt out. The pulp is then put into a rough net, opened at both ends, to which are attached two or three short sticks, by turning which in opposite directions the oil is squeezed out. The longer the nuts are under ground the thicker the oil and the worse the quality. This alone accounts for the different qualities of oil exported from different places along the coast. Other methods are employed to produce the oil for home consumption, but that here described is the mode usual in the production of the palm oil of commerce.

A Royal Bonaparte.

In an interesting paper on Prince Jerome, in The Westminster Review, Frank T. Lawrence directs attention to a curious point, which, if ever the question of a Bonapartist restoration should be seriously entertained—which, to be sure, does not seem very probable—would not be without significance. It is this: If the prince, or even his descendants, should ever attain power, Bonapartism would appear in an entirely new guise, for through his mother he belongs to the royal caste, a distinction which neither the first Napoleon nor Napoleon III could claim. He is as "well born" (as those who take delight in this kind of dynastic law are wont to express) as any sovereign in Europe, and there is probably no reigning family to which he is not related.

As his great-grandmother was a sister of George III, he is second cousin once removed to Queen Victoria, and shares all her ancestry save that through Queen Charlotte and the duchess of Kent. He has, says Mr. Lawrence, "as much of the blood of Plantagenet, Tudor and Stuart in his veins as the queen has in hers," and in respect of the last he is excelled by his children, who, through their mother, are descended from Charles I, through his daughter Henrietta, duchess of Orleans, while our reigning house can claim descent only through a daughter of James I. Prince Napoleon is descended from George I in three distinct lines, one of them being through George II and Frederic, Prince of Wales.

New Use for the Phonograph.

An interesting physiological experiment was made at the Edison house, the headquarters of the Edison Phonograph company in Europe, last week. Dr. L. White, of Harley street, has a patient who has a defect in his speech of a most singular character. The patient, a lad of 10, and English by birth, is unable to speak his native language but a jargon which cannot be understood, many doctors have examined him, but could not exactly diagnose the cause of the phenomenon, and it was questionable whether the lad spoke the same thing twice in the same way, and the only way to discover whether he did so or not was to get him to speak to the phonograph. The lad, in the presence of several gentlemen, was asked to speak the Lord's prayer and the alphabet. Several cylinders were made in this way, and when a comparison was instituted between the various phonograms, it was found that there was no variation in the spoken words and that it was quite possible for the language which the boy speaks to be understood by simply learning the various sounds. The phonograms will be exhibited before various societies in this country, and it is just possible a new disease has been discovered.—Pall Mall Gazette.

John Chinaman's Comfortable Attire.

"A Chinaman is not pretty to look at, and his clothes do not fit him like the traditional paper on the wall, but I think his attire the most comfortable in the world," says a dress reformer. "To begin with," he resumed, "the Chinaman wears a soft, low crowned felt hat, with a wide brim to protect his eyes. He wears but a single band round the neck, or two at the most. Have you ever counted up what we wear? No! Well, figure it now. The undershirt band one, a possible chest protector is two, a shirt band is three, a collar is four, a necktie is five, a vest collar is six, a coat collar is seven, an overcoat collar is eight and a neck scarf sometimes makes the total nine—nine bands around the neck. What a chance for perspiration! Yes, the Chinaman's rig is more comfortable."—London Tit-Bits.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Considerable deprecatory wind is being expended on the noisy termination of the Government meeting at Vancouver. Mr. SAM GRIER interrupted the Premier, which unquestionably was discourteous. The Premier responded: "These are your lambs, are they not, Mr. COTTON?" Mr. COTTON then addressed the audience, saying, Mr. ROBSON says you are my lambs. I want you to show him that you know your shepherd." Chairman MCLEAN then added, "I think they are black sheep," and this caused an uproar. What else could have been expected from this ill-timed remark? But if the Premier could not tolerate COTTON'S woolly supporters, nor yet COTTON control them—which is strange, since cotton has been declared "king," —we should think that he might have undertaken to answer that poor devil of a malcontent, the editor of the Columbian. Matters are desperate when a Senator answers a question put by a journalist by folding his toga about him, following the act by blowing out the gas.

GLADSTONE AND FREE TRADE.

Mr GLADSTONE in addressing the Cobden Club delivered himself to the following effect: "Free traders must recognize with great disappointment how much ground had been lost by their doctrine within the last twenty-five years. Militarism, which lay like a vampire over Europe, was responsible for much of the mischief, but not for all, because free trade had receded in countries where militarism did not prevail—in the United States and in the British colonies." With regard to "Militarism," that unquestionably is largely responsible for protection in Europe, but what has caused free trade to "recede" in the U. S. and the British Colonies. GLADSTONE, so far as reported, throws no light on this phase of the subject. He does not tell us whether it is ignorance, or whether it is because legislative bodies have fallen into the hands of manufacturing syndicates. And indeed this is an obscure question. The rise and progress of protection is obscured in a maze of causes, some concrete some abstract, honest and dishonest. The rise and progress of protection would be an interesting study. It would be interesting to trace out just how much error it contains, and just how much dishonesty. It is to be presumed, however, that protection, originally was offered as an honest proposition. To just what extent the doctrine was encouraged by manufacturing interests is not easy to determine, but even allowing that they played a conspicuous part in its propagation, would it not be unfair to assume that they were actuated wholly by the dishonest motive of inordinate gain? But as protection waxed, the direct advantages to be derived from it in respect to manufactures daily becoming more apparent, while with respect to the consumer it daily became more apparent that the indirect advantages which he derived were incommensurate with the cost of malutenance, shall it be inferred under these circumstances, that the advocacy of free trade has a basis in common honesty. We think not. The men who do the thinking and the law making for the people know that it is not, but being for the most part largely interested in industries wherein they receive direct benefit from protection, or, if not are subject to the influence of those who are interested in industries so favored, they adhere to the doctrine, preach it in the market places, and legislate in conformance with its principles. Protection owes its steady growth to the ignorance of the masses, and the ignorance and cupidity of their legislators, who either are in the manufacturing business themselves, or who are influenced or dominated over by manufacturers. When one remembers the powerful manufacturers' lobby at Washington, and recalls to mind the assessments which have been levied on the manufacturing interests of Canada, he cannot help reaching the conclusion that protection owes its persistent growth to causes not commonly identified with common honesty. GLADSTONE does not say so, however. He confines himself to "militarism," which is undoubtedly true as far as it goes. He has said, however, that all protection was immoral, and so it is easy to infer what he thinks as to the causes which keep protection alive on this continent.

MR. ROBSON AND THE MINERAL ACT.

"We must leave," says the News, "the consideration of other matters touched on by Mr. ROBSON to another occasion. We should have liked to have referred fully to his remarks on the Mineral Act, in which he supposed he was severely attacking us for our criticisms of yesterday. But a telegram, which appears in another column, shows that had there been an opportunity afforded for a reply to Mr. ROBSON last evening, he would have been placed in a position of extraordinary difficulty. The telegram of the Deputy Minister of the Interior gives Mr. ROBSON the choice of these three positions for himself and colleagues: 1st, That they were all completely ignorant when they passed the Mineral Act of the Dominion Government's land regulations; 2nd, That they had the knowledge of these but desired to force the prospector to pay $105 immediately on location of his claim, so that they (the Provincial Government) might have the use of the money for any period up to five years; or, 3rd, that being aware that not one claim out of ten that might be located would be ultimately taken up and a Crown Patent applied for, they (the Provincial Government) would receive large sums annually from the unfortunate prospector to the enrichment of the Provincial Treasury while impoverishing a hard-working class. Mr. ROBSON will find no escape from this dilemma and will heartily regret the foolish attack on us which he went out of his way to make last evening. We may also mention for the honorable gentleman's information that he will find we protested against the Act at the time it was amended, but as he did not furnish his own agents with copies of it till a week ago we could not get the accurate text of it to verify the objections we had taken."

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT.

Shall corporal punishment be eliminated from the public schools? The Rev. Mr. McLeod thinks it should be, and perhaps he is right. There are, however, two sides to the question. Argument may be adduced pro and con equally appealing to the understanding. Solomon says, "spare the rod and spoil the child," while we on the other hand having gone deeper into the mysteries of psychology (we at least assume that we have) accept the dictum of the Jewish king with no little distrust. Which is right in the matter.

If there is one thing which experience has demonstrated, it is that not one man in a hundred is fit to exercise discretionary power whether in relation to politics or morals. Ninety-nine men out of a hundred entrusted with such powers abuse them. Unable to govern themselves in all things there will come periods in their lives when passion will distort their judgement, and they will do something which no sooner done than they are sorry for. On the other hand, it is morally certain that the greater proportion of mankind are controlled only by fear, and what is true of adults applies with equal force to juveniles. What then is the proper course to be pursued in the public schools? What is the true mean to be observed? Shall the spoiled darlings of the present generation, their moral natures still nascent, their bumps of veneration still undeveloped, their love of discipline and of study at an inverse ratio to their love of play, be treated as responsible beings? There is scarcely a parent who so treats his children. He feels that they are irresponsible. He feels that though they may be guileless, they are creatures of their impulses, and that these unless checked in time eventuate in ungovernable self-will. It would seem to follow, therefore, that if corporeal punishment is a necessary feature of domestic policy it should also extend to the public schools. On the other hand, if parents are incapable of using the rod judiciously, is it safe to assume that persons in whom the quality of justice is not tempered with parental affection, are fit to be entrusted with the power to inflict corporal punishment. The general verdict will be that they are not, and as a general proposition this is correct. It is better that a dozen bad boys should go unthrashed than that one little fellow should have the first faint glimmerings of his self respect wounded. There are children who feel the degradation of the rod without being able to account for it. They have done wrong and they know it, but they resent the lash. It is of no use to inflict corporal punishment on such as these. That, however, corporal punishment tends to brutalize children is contrary to all experience. The character of the present generation disproves an assumption of this kind. We have grown up a very respectable lot of men and women despite our thrashings at school. The most of us concur in the belief that we never got any more than we deserved. There is, however, an efficacious offset to corporal punishment in the public schools namely, suspension, and finally expulsion, and on general principles this system of punishment is preferable to the rod. At all events, if the rod is to be continued in the public schools, it may be taken for granted that it is superfluous in cases where the culprit exceeds twelve years of age. The pupil at that age who is not amenable to reproof at the hands of a school teacher may be rated incorrigable. The influence of the rod in his case is at the best only temporary.

REGISTRATION OF VOTES.

Dr. MILNE while addressing the electors at the meeting in the Victoria on Tuesday evening, in defining the platform of the Opposition, referred to the necessity of a better and simpler mode of registering voters. He pointed out the fact that at the present time we have four different forms of registration in existence, namely, one for each of the following: The Dominion Parliament, Local Legislation, Municipal (for the election of mayor and aldermen and for the election of school trustees). The doctor maintained that present manhood suffrage should be the qualification for both parliaments and we think this is the correct principle. It would effect a saving to the country of many thousands of dollars, the Dominion Act being so cumbersome in its present shape as to be an endless cause of dispute as well as cost to the country. Many here as well as elsewhere consider that if they are on one list they are on all and it is only on election days that they find their mistake. The other reform as suggested by Dr. Milne, is to have the same registration apply to both. The qualification necessary for mayor and aldermen, apply to the requirements for voting for school trustee and to have the elections for the last two offices held on the same day, is one which should commend itself to all. These are reforms that should be brought about as soon as possible, as they are a source of grievance to many, who leave the matter of registration of voters to others. We also think that if the election of school trustees was held on the same day as the election of mayor and aldermen people would take a greater interest in school matters.

FROM VANCOUVER.

The Duke and Duchess of Connaught Arrive in Vancouver—Address Presented.

[Special to the TIMES.]

VANCOUVER, May 22.—The dreary rain that prevailed this morning had the effect of dampening in a manner the enthusiasm of Vancouver's welcome to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught who arrived from Victoria by the Canadian Pacific steamship Abyssinia at 11 o'clock. The royal party was met at the dock by Mayor Oppenheimer and the City Council forming a reception committee with the resident officers of the C. P. R., who extended to them the hospitality of this, the youngest city in the Dominion. An address expressive of Vancouver's royalty and her citizens pleasure at the honor of a visit from royalty was read by Mayor Oppenheimer, and in reply the Prince thanked Vancouver for the cordial welcome extended to himself and his consort. He was glad, he said, to find himself once more on Canadian soil. It was quite a new experience for him to come into a city of only three years of age and he was perfectly astonished to observe the size and importance of the buildings and the many signs of active progress to be seen on every hand. He greatly regretted that they would be unable to accept the hospitality so kindly extended in the name of the city of Vancouver as all well knew he was returning from a long journey and had been forced to make his arrangements some time before in order to make them harmonize with the steamer's sailing dates. He hoped all would understand that this was the only thing that prevented him from accepting to the full the invitation of Vancouver's citizens. He would with great pleasure convey to Her Majesty the expression of loyalty and devotion contained in the address. Again he thanked the people of this young city and expressed the wish that their manifest prosperity would long continue. He felt sure this important link between the east and west (the Canadian Pacific) would prove one of the chains binding together the commerce of the nation, and of the world and again he hoped that every prosperity would rest with the city of Vancouver and the great province of which it was one of the principal towns. Continued cheers from the assembled crowd upon the docks greeted the Prince's speech and the royal party were then driven to the C. P. Hotel where they lunched and will spend the afternoon. They leave to-morrow morning for the east by a special train.

NAUTICAL NOTES.

Items of Interest Along the Water Front—General Marine News.

The steamer Maude sailed for Nanaimo last night.

The tug Lorne will go to Departure Bay to-night for coal.

Captain Holmes, of the steamer Vanconver, of Vancouver, has arrived at Victoria to take charge of the tug Hope, a much larger vessel, running out of this city.

The steamer Yosemite arrived from New Westminster and way ports at ten o'clock this morning with 80 passengers who came down to attend the celebration; and two car loads of flour from Enderby for shipment to San Francisco.

The steam launch which was decided upon some time ago by the Dominion Government for use on the Fraser by the Inspector of Fisheries, is to be built by the McPhee Bros. of Westminster. The little craft will be 30 feet in length, 6 ft. beam, 2½ ft. deep and furnished with a 6 h. p. engine. The launch will be built of native cedar, with white oak frame, and finished in handsome style. It is expected the hull will be ready for the machinery in about a month, and the steamer complete will probably be at Mr. Mowat's service by July 15th.

NOVEL ROYAL SALUTE.

Though Not Fired by Cannon, it Was Duly Appreciated.

Probably the most unique royal salute ever fired to honor royalty occurred yesterday, when 21 blasts were discharged successively by the contractor at the outer wharf, just as His Royal Highness passed through the gates on his way to the Government grounds.

The reception committee, as was everyone else, were surprised at the early arrival of the Abyssinia and the royal party, as she was not expected so soon, and no arrangement had been made for a salute, but there was a salute, and a royal one too, although it was rather impromptu. The saluting was done, as was said before, by the firing of twenty-one blasts made ready by the contractor at the outer wharf. The holes in the hard stone had been loaded with dynamite and electric fuses connected, and as the Ducal party passed, the sharp reverberations rang out with almost military precision of time, every shot going off splendidly.

His Royal Highness felt very pleased when he learnt the nature of the salute, and it must be a source of pride to him to know that the twenty one shots fired could poetically be described as the sounding footsteps of the giant progress whose march on this western shore had been attuned to the perfection of a royal salute.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

Geo. Cooper returned last evening from a trip to Portland.

W. K. Leighton and Dr. Davis of Nanaimo, came down to-day.

Dr. Eberts of Wellington, and Dr. Walkem of East Wellington, are in the city.

B. W. Pearse, C.E., and family, have returned from England after an absence of a year and a half.

Mrs. S. Flesham, of Port Townsend, is on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Hyams, and will remain during the holidays.

Miss Climas and Miss Somerville of Tacoma, came over on last evening's steamer on a visit to friends in the city.

J. W. Hopp, of the Kingsbury Co. News, De Smet, South Dakota, is in the city, and will remain over the holidays.

Mrs. Robt. Dunsmuir is expected to arrive at Victoria to-morrow from Europe where she has been traveling for some months past.

S. S. Johnson, business manager of the Walla Walla Union, is in the city. Mr. Johnson is a frequent and ever welcome visitor to the Queen City.

Mrs. Rev. Jas. Christie and her daughter Carrie were passengers by the island under this morning on their way east for a summer visit to Mrs. Christie's father at Halifax.

C. H. Gibbons, of the Colonist, has gone up the line of the C. P. R. as special correspondent of the telegraphs in connection with the trip of H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught. Mr. Gibbons will go as far east as Winnipeg.

D. W. Buchanan and Mrs. Buchanan left this morning for Vancouver by way of Nanaimo. They have been spending a few weeks pleasantly in the city and after visiting New Westminster will proceed to their home in Winnipeg.

Dr. and Mrs. Patterson of Winnipeg are in the city to-day. They arrived last night and are waiting for the next San Francisco steamer, on which they go South. Dr. Patterson is spending today around town with some of his old Almonte (Ont.) friends.

Kamloops will be well represented on this 24th, and in fact to be strictly accurate the inland metropolis is already represented. Messrs. O'Brien, Hull, Palmer and others arrived last night and as is the case with all the boys from the country who visit this city are enjoying themselves highly. Time deals lightly with these gentlemen. They are just as young as they used to be, and just as enthusiastic in their opposition to the Government. The Opposition they say will make a clean sweep. With regard to Theo's geographical distribution of cabinet officers, why they just laugh at it. The idea of a Victorian going to Cowichan just to scatter out the quintette! absurd! In the matter of business the boys inform us that Kamloops is picking up, becoming quite lively, and when the Asheroft railway shall commence operations having Kamloops for an initial point, they expect Kamloops to resume the crimson line which distinguished the period when Tom Garvin and his track layers used to "set em up."

Customs Courtesy.

The Colonist of this morning says that through the courtesy of Port Inspector Young and Collector Milne, the passengers of the Abyssinia were "allowed" to land in Victoria while that steamer was lying at the outer wharf. While there is not the slightest doubt as to the courtesy of the gentlemen named, who are always willing to do anything in their power to oblige, at the same time they cannot wish to be so publicly thanked for something that they have not the slightest thing to do with. The ladies and gentlemen comprising the passengers of the steamer were not Chinese, and had a perfect right to land. The Customs are vested with great powers, but hardly to the extent attributed by the Colonist, and certainly would not care to see such an item go unchallenged. What they have done and are willing to do is to place as little trouble as possible in the way of landing mils and passengers with luggage from the C.P. R. steamers, and to further such landing have arranged to have an officer board the vessels directly they anchor. This was done in the case of the Abyssinia, and that was all.

SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and Elsewhere.

SCULLING MATCH ARRANGED.

A sculling match has been arranged between Kemp and O'Connor.

SULLIVAN WILLING TO FIGHT.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Col. J. Bailey of the Virginia Athletic Club, consultated with John L. Sullivan in the Astor House this morning. The result of the conference was that Sullivan agreed to fight McAuliffe for $1000 in July and Jackson for $25,000 in August. Each battle will take place in Virginia under the auspices of the Virginia Athletic club.

AFTERNOON SPORTS.

Beacon Hill was fairly crowded with ladies, gentlemen and children this afternoon when the athletic sports commenced, and although a little rain was falling, it did not at all interfere with the pleasure of all present. The sports were very interesting, but especially the exhibition given by the Victoria Athletic Club. Up to the time of going to press the results of the different contests could not be obtained.

The Duke's Visit.

Lieut.-Governor Nelson entertained their Royal Highnesses at dinner last evening at Government House. In addition to the Royal party of six there were present, His Worship Mayor Grant, Capt. Hulton, R.N., Lieut.-Col. Holmes, Col. Prior, Capt. Ogilvie and Mr. Stanton.

Major-General McNeill, equerry to their Highnesses visited Victoria a few years ago. One of the first faces he recognized was that of ex-Mayor Fell, who had shown him around the city at the time.

Major McNeill expressed the feelings of the Royal visitors last evening in respect to their reception. They were he said remarkably well pleased with the the plain and simple demonstration of loyalty and goodwill made by the city. There was not too much of it, and their Highnesses were to some extent left alone to enjoy the beauty of their surroundings. They were particularly struck with the foliage and profusion of flowers as well as with the unrivalled view from the highlands of the city. They regretted exceedingly that their arrangements did not permit of their remaining over for a few days in Victoria.

The party are hastening through to leave Quebec on the 12th of June, for England. They expect to arrive home on the 20th of June.

Contracts made for supplying families with ice at reasonable rates by the British Columbia Ice Co. Telephone call, office 22 Yates street. 7-5.1m.

A BY-LAW

Naming the Wards into which the City of Victoria shall be divided and their boundaries.

BE IT ENACTED by the Council of the Corporation of the City of Victoria as follows:

(1). The Municipality of the Corporation of the City of Victoria after the passage of this By-Law shall be divided into three wards, namely, Yates Street Ward, Johnson Street Ward and James Bay Ward.

(2). The said Yates Street Ward shall consist of that portion of land lying within the said Municipality contained within the following boundaries, namely: Commencing at a point in the centre of Telegraph street at the junction of said street with Victoria Harbor; thence easterly along the centre of Telegraph street and continuing in a line to the centre of Store street; thence southerly along the centre of Store street to a point opposite the centre of Fisguard street; thence easterly across Store street to the centre of Fisguard street; thence easterly along the centre of Fisguard street to the centre of Frederick street; thence easterly along the centre of Frederick street across Cook street to the centre of Alfred street; thence easterly along Alfred street to the centre of Chambers street; thence northerly along the centre of Chambers street to a point opposite the centre of that portion of Putnam street which intersects Chambers street from the east; thence easterly and continuing along the centre of Putnam street and continuing in a direct line to the City boundary line the foregoing being the northerly boundary of Yates Street Ward; thence southerly along the said City boundary to the centre of Belcher street; thence westerly along the centre of Belcher street to the centre of Cook street; thence northerly along the centre of Cook street to the centre of Fort street; thence westerly along the centre of Fort street to the centre of Wharf street and continuing in a straight line to Victoria Harbor; thence northerly along the shore line of Victoria Harbor including all wharves, jetties and buildings abutting on said shore line to the place of beginning.

(3). The said James Bay Ward shall consist of that portion of land within the said Municipality contained within the following boundaries, namely: Commencing at a point on the sea shore being the south easterly extremity of Montreal street; thence following the general line of the shore to the stone monument marked C. SUCCESS.

As we gaze up life's slope, as we gaze
In the morn, ere the dew drops are dry,
What a splendor hangs over those ways,
What a glory gleams there in the sky!
What pleasure seems waiting us high
On the peak of that beautiful slope,
What rainbow hued colors of hope,
As we gaze!

As we climb up the hill, as we climb,
Our hearts, our illusions, are rent;
For Fate, who is spouse of old Time,
Is jealous of youth and content,
With brows that are brooding and bent
She shadows our sunlight of gold,
And the way grows lonely and cold,
As we climb.

As we toil on through trouble and pain,
There are hands that will shelter and feed;
But once let us dare to attain,
They will bruise our bare hearts till we bleed.
'Tis the worst of all crimes to succeed—
Know this as we fast on a crust,
Know this in the darkness and dust,
Ye who climb!

As we stand on the heights of success,
Lo! success seems as hard as defeat,
Through the lives we may succor and bless
Alone may its bitter turn sweet;
And the world, lying there at our feet,
With its caviling praise and its sneer,
We must pity, condone and not hear,
Where we stand.

As we live on those heights, we must live
With the courage and pride of a god;
For the world, it has nothing to give
But the scourge of the lash and the rod.
Our thoughts must be noble and broad,
Our purpose must challenge men's gaze,
While we seek not their blame nor their praise,
As we live.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A Fortune Just Missed.

Quincy Robison related an incident of the early history of the oil regions recently which may give the children of the present generation a vague idea of the magnitude of the transactions which took place when oil was $8 and $9 a barrel, and poor people gained a competency by scooping it off the surface of creeks or gathered it from pools around the tanks which had overflowed. The story, as told by Mr. Robison, was as follows:

"Within a month after Col. Drake had struck the first petroleum ever brought to the surface in America by means of drilling, my father and the father of my relatives here bought a tract of land, comprising 1,280 acres, adjoining the farm on which the Drake well was located, for $350,000. Not long afterward I was sitting in their office one day—I remember it as distinctly as though it happened only yesterday—when an agent for an eastern syndicate walked in and offered $500,000 for the 1,280 acres. The owners looked at him rather incredulously for a moment, but before they could speak he had counted out on the table $500,000 in cash and drafts, which he offered for a deed of the tract. I was appalled by the sight of the pile, but my father and the father of these gentlemen retired for consultation, and decided that if the property was worth $500,000 it was worth $1,000,000, and the offer was refused. Their heirs still own the land, and now it is valued at about $20,000. Where they could have got dollars we could scarcely get nickels. Thus you can see what seemingly fairy stories could be told of those days. They are almost incomprehensible to the present generation, but they were red hot facts." And a sigh of regret that the offer had not been accepted went around the circle.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

King Sham Reigns.

This is an era of shams, and shams in dress, about which so much is said and written, are particularly noticeable. It no longer pays to purchase "good things," because good things go out of date as fast as poor things, and their extra cost is dead loss, hence expedients of all sorts mark the apparel, the furniture, the houses even, of this now almost defunct Nineteenth century. A very expensive cheapness has been substituted for enduring investments. There are some few old fogies yet remaining who demand substance rather than style, and who trust they are getting an A1 article by paying an A1 price for it. Let 'em still hope! Do not disturb their credulity in advance. But it is none the less true that sham is king, precisely as shoddy ruled the world in post bellum days. The source of this condition of affairs is not far to seek; the increasing populations, the greed for money, the struggle to live, all combine to father shams and nurture pretense. Make believes are the order of the day.—Boston Herald.

Army Life Is Not an Easy One.

The supposition that army life is an easy one is a civilian's delusion. No occupation on earth is more exacting. The reveille is sounded at daylight, and the soldier must be up and ready. Between reveille in the morning and "taps," at 9:30 at night, he has to attend the majority of thirty-three bugle calls, and he is on his feet most of the time till "retreat" at sunset. The officers are busy at nearly all times over new military problems. They are called to mount and manage new artillery that would have struck dire dismay into armies like those of Cæsar, Hannibal or Alexander. Today war is a science, requiring all the skill of the best navigators, the most able engineers and the finest electricians. All the known means of defense and destruction are availed of, even down to the last electric triumph, the telephone.—Baltimore American.

An Objection.

"Mamma," said Harry, as he walked into the parlor with a rebellious air, "I ain't going to have light hair any more."

"Why not?" asked his mother.

"'Cause it ain't useful. You can't wipe your pen on it 'thout its leaving streaks.—Merchant Traveler.

A Boy with a Future.

"Tommy," said a Chicago youngster's mother, "there is a great big blot on your copy book."

"No, mamma, you're mistaken. That's only a period. Our teacher is awfully near sighted." — Merchant Traveler

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Short Session at Last Night's Meeting—By-Laws Passed.

All the Aldermen were present at the City Hall last evening. His Worship Mayor Grant, however, being absent, Ald. Vigelius was voted to the chair at 7.30 p. m., and routine work having been completed the following were read and disposed of:

Hon. A. De Cosmos, in reference to notices served in 1886, on several residents on Pandora street to remove their fences on the South side of said street. Such fences have not yet been removed, and the writer asked that proceedings be taken in the matter.—Referred to committee.

Chas. Hayward, regarding the grade of Government, and asking for it, that he could raise the building next to the Bank of British Columbia to the existing street grade.—Referred to committee.

Edgar Foster, asking that the Board take action in a matter pertaining to lots owned by him in the cemetery.—Referred to committee.

Smith & Clark, applying for the use of part of Johnson and Store streets for building purposes.—Granted.

Secretary of the Street Railway Company, stating that the company were about to run their tracks across Rock Bay bridge and along Work street.—Referred to committee.

Gray & Raiff, applying for water service for Turkish baths.—Referred to committee.

Michael Kennedy, asking for assistance toward getting some slight employment, he being ill.—Referred to the mayor.

The City Treasurer, enclosing list of lands on which arrears of taxes for two years are due, and asking for writs and powers to move in the matter.—Referred to committee.

E. C. Baker, in reference to supplying spark arresters at the power house of the electric light company on Langley street.—Filed.

W. R. Wilson, asking for permission to lay a box drain. Referred to committee.

The city barristers, reporting that the demurrer re the Colquitz water claim had been allowed.—Filed.

Eberts & Taylor, stating that the injunction against the city in the case of Jones & McNeill vs. the Corporation, had been dissolved.—Filed.

John Coughlan, tendering for the paving of entrance to Trounce alley.—Referred to committee.

REVENUE BY-LAW.

This by-law came up for its second reading, and being read and considered clause by clause, and after some amendment was passed.

SANITARY BY-LAW.

Ald. Harrison gave notice of motion that he should at the next meeting ask leave to introduce a by-law to deal with drains for flushing water closets.

REPORTS.

From the street committee, recommending that a box drain be placed on the south side of Yates street.—Adopted.

From the police committee, recommending that several articles needed in the police barracks be provided, and that the pay of the present officers be raised $5 per month.—Adopted.

From the fire wardens, recommending the endorsation of the chief engineer's suspension of Driver Gardner, and the employment of F. Hinds as tillerman and caretaker; that the striking of the bell could not be struck as desired by the carpenters, without interfering with the fire alarm.—Adopted.

CEMETERY MATTERS.

Ald. McKillican rose to ask that a slight change be made in the agreement in reference to the purchase of the cemetery land, in the matter of the time to be given to the corporation for the completion of the sale of the said land.

Ald. Wilson and Harrison objected, as they considered that the price of the new cemetery land had been very high, and the sellers should be willing to make some slight concessions.

The change asked for was to make the agreement to cover one year's time for the completion of the sale instead of twenty years, as it had been shown that the present Board had no power to mortgage its revenues over one year.

Ald. Holland and Kelly thought that the first agreement of twenty years purchase time be adhered to.

On being put to the vote it was carried that the first report of the committee should be reconsidered by the committee. The vote was a close one, Ald. Holland, Wilson, Harrison, Kelly and Vigelius voting for the reconsideration, and Ald. McKillican, Smith, Goodacre and Robertson voting no.

PARK NOTICES.

Ald. Wilson asked that notices be placed at the park forbidding bad boys to throw stones into the lakes, and also that no dogs be allowed to swim in the water of the lakes.

WIDENING STREETS.

Ald. Holland asked that notice be given to certain property owners on Chatham street that ten feet of their land was required for street widening purposes.

FIRE HYDRANTS.

Ald. Smith asked that a sum of money ($500) be placed in the hands of the fire wardens for the purchase of additional hydrants.

Ald. Wilson said that the hydrants were certainly needed, but the estimates must not be exceeded.

Ald. Smith said that if this was the case, the money would be furnished by the water committee provided that the city would give to that committee the revenue for the sale of water.

GUESTS.

The chairman said that Mayor Grant had requested the board to meet him on Friday evening to arrange for the reception of the Mayor and board of Aldermen of Fairhaven.

The board then adjourned.

Elocution and the culture of the voice. Frederic Adderley, Professor of Elocution (prize medalist, 1882) gives lessons in the above. Amateurs coached. For terms address 115 Government St.

PRESENTATION.

Rev. Father Van Nevel Receives Birthday Gifts From Y. M. I., No. 85.

At the conclusion of the regular meeting of Young Men's Institute, No. 85, held last evening in Temperance Hall the Rev. Father Van Nevel, Financial Secretary of the Institute, was called to the President's desk and presented with a writing desk and a gentleman's toilet set. The presentation was made by Mr. Geo. Tribe, acting president. The following address accompanied the birthday gifts and was read by the chairman:

Victoria, B. C., May 21st, 1890.

Rev. Father J. A. Van Nevel, Financial Secretary Y. M. I., No. 85.

REV. SIR AND BROTHER.—On behalf of the officers and members of Young Men's Institute, No. 85, I take much pleasure in handing you a few birthday presents as a mark of the esteem in which you are held by the members of the pioneer Institute of British Columbia. During your term as Financial Secretary, the Institute has made wonderful progress, owing principally, to your assiduous attention to the position and your untiring efforts to prove to the Roman Catholic young men of Victoria that our society is a fraternal organization to promote the moral, intellectual and social improvement of its members. Hoping these small tokens of the high esteem in which you are held by the members of Young Men's Institute, No. 85, will be accepted.

GEO TRIBE,
On behalf of members of Y. M., No. 85.

Father Van Nevel thanked the members in a short speech. After the presentation a programme of instrumental music and solos was given, in which Messrs. F. Sehl, G. Tribe, F. H. Long, and A. Lecowzcieze took part.

The Louvre,

On Johnson street, is the place to go for a fine glass of beer at 5 cents. A short order lunch counter attached. Open day and night.

A Correction.

The Colonist makes the statement to the effect that there will be a five mile bicycle race for the British Columbia championship. Two miles only is the distance which will be wheeled over.

Mischievous Boys.

The schooner presented to the park, and which was anchored in Goodacre Lake, has lost her foremast, the consequence of being stoned by the small boy. The rod, it might be supposed, might be applied with advantage to these mischievous youngsters.

Circus Arrived.

The Ferndale, Capt. Bergeman, arrived at Victoria this moring, at 5.30, with the circus, containing ninety five persons. The reception awarded the performers by the small boy was as cordial as that extend to his royal highness the Duke of Connaught.

An Awful Sound.

The steam sirene of the Abyssinia woke the echoes and the dogs at four o'clock this morning. The sirene sounds considerably like a giant pig would if the said pig was in trouble. The awful and blood curdling scream from its brazen throat causing little children to cower closer to their mammas.

In Philharmonic Hall.

Philharmonic Hall was well filled last evening with an audience which showed by the applause must have been well pleased with the programme gotten up by Prof. Sharpe in aid of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. Miss Humber and Miss O'Neil were well received as were all the performers.

Victoria's Visitors.

Capt. Grahame, one of Fairhaven's solid men was in the city yesterday making arrangements for the reception of the Mayor and Councillors of that city who have chartered the steamer State of Washington to bring them over to-morrow evening. The Mayor and Aldermen of this city will meet them on their arrival and show them around the city.

Transit to the Gorge.

The steamer Lottie with two large scows has been engaged by F. M. Yorke & Co. to take sightseers to the Gorge on Saturday. The scows have been comfortably fitted with seats, and as the steamer is a powerful one, the trips will be made in quick time. Music will be furnished by the Queen City Band, which will travel with the boat.

The First One.

The first American flag with the full number of stars in the Union, 42, was flooted yesterday by Mr. C. Phillips, of the London Harmony. The striped and starred banner was supported by two large British flags, one on each side, and as the folds of all mingled together it was symbolic of the peace and good will between the countries they are emblems of.

Approaching Holidays.

The approaching holidays have brought out the usual crowd of street fakers and peddlers. This afternoon could be seen on the corner of Yates and Government street, a seller of songs, an organ grinder a trick bird fortune teller, a microscope merchant and a knife sharpener seller. They all seemed to be doing a fairly good trade, and will probably reap a rich harvest between this and Saturday night.

Police Notes.

A sad-eyed and melancholy looking drunk, who answered to the name of John Walls, pleaded guilty to the charge as read, and was convicted to pay a fine of $5, in default of which a sentence of one month was recorded.

J. F. Green, a motoneer of the street railway, was charged with assaulting one Chas. Berverty, another employee. The defendant pleaded guilty of having slightly slapped the plaintiff.

Hon. D. W. Higgins, President of the company, on behalf of both parties, stated to the court that the whole trouble was a very trivial one, and arose over a slight dispute between the two men. The plaintiff had been suspended for two weeks, and in Mr. Higgins' opinion this punishment itself fitted the crime.

His Honor, taking into consideration the trivial nature of the affair, thought that a fine of $10 would meet the case, and that amount was accordingly imposed.

The remanded case of J. Knight, charged with selling liquor wholesale without a license, came up and was dealt with. Evidence was taken at length, and the case remanded until to-morrow.

John Hughes did not appear to the charge of beating his wife, and the case was written off.

Two Trains Daily Between Portland and Spokane Falls.

Effective May 11th, 1890, the Union Pacific System will establish two daily trains between Portland and Spokane Falls. Pullman Palace Sleepers and Reclining Chair cars will be run between Portland and Spokane Falls without change.

This new arrangement will afford both local and through passengers additional and unsurpassed facilities. Tickets, detailed time of trains, and general information can be obtained upon application to any ticket agent Union Pacific System.

THE FORMAL OPENING

OF THE PROVINCIAL ROYAL JUBILEE HOSPITAL.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught Declares the Institution Open—Inspection of the Building and Pleasure of the Royal Visitors.

Since it was first known that the Duke of Connaught would call at Victoria on his way to England from India, it has been the intention of the Royal Provincial Jubilee Hospital committee to ask His Royal Highness to formally open that institution. A cable was sent to the Duke at Yokohama asking if he would officiate, but it did not reach him in time for an answer, and on the arrival of the Abyssinia a written request signed by President T. R. Smith, Robt. Ward, Esq., and W. M. Chudley, Esq., was presented to the Duke by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, asking that he be kind enough to formally open the hospital. His R. H. accepted at once, very heartily, and the committee hurriedly made preparations for the event, but owing to the extremely short time at their disposal, the committee were unable to issue invitations to friends and subscribers, which they very much regret. As much publicity as possible was given to the event, and quite a few gathered at the Hospital at three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The royal party arrived at the institution shortly after three o'clock, and were welcomed in the board room by the committee, composed of Messrs. Robt. Ward, W. C. Ward, Alex. Wilson, Mayor Grant, James Fell, George Byrnes, Dr. Davie and Mr. Chudley, the indefatigable Secretary, and were introduced by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor to their royal highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

Mr. Chudley then addressed the Duke on behalf of the committee and expressed his and their thanks on behalf of the citizens of Victoria, for the kindness of the Duke in opening in person the institution. In a few well-worded remarks, Mr. Chudley explained to the Duke and Duchess the objects of the hospital, and gave a short speech of its history.

His Royal Highness spoke briefly in reply. He said: Sir and gentlemen:—It was a very kind thought of yours to ask me to perform this pleasing ceremony of opening this Victoria Jubilee hospital. I am happy to say it has been my good fortune in many parts of Her Majesty's empire to open many similar institutions. I think there is hardly a town in India in which there has not been some institution opened in connection with Her Majesty's Jubilee, and, therefore, it affords us great pleasure in being present among you to-day, and opening an institution which, I am sure, will be a great benefit to the City of Victoria, and, doubtless, to the inhabitants of the Island of Vancouver. I can tell you that I know nothing could give our gracious sovereign greater pleasure than to feel that her name is connected with any institution that has for its object the alleviation of suffering, and I will not fail to tell her of your kind wish that I, as her son, should be connected with the opening of this institution. I hope that the good work you have to do, will be fully realized, and I hope that your hospital will be the means of diffusing a knowledge of medicine, and possibly of nursing, which has been found, in many parts of the empire, to be productive of the greatest good to the people. It will now afford us great pleasure to go and inspect your wards.

Little Miss Grant, daughter of Mayor Grant, presented the Duchess with a richly made boquet which was graciously accepted and the donor thanked for it.

After the close of H. R. Highness' remarks an inspection of the building was made by the royal party Dr. Davie conducting the Duchess, while Mr. Chudley guided the Duke and Mrs. Nelson. The royal visitors expressed themselves as much pleased with what they saw, the Duke making many enquiries of Mr. Chudley into the working of the institution concerning the method of supporting the hospital, H. R. H. being particular in enquiring whether it was Dominion Government or local Government aid received. The magnificent view and splendid location was a matter which pleased the Duke very much, he seeming to think the site unrivalled. The patients wards were visited and a few kindly words spoken to the sufferers. By this time the hour was becoming late and the royal party after expressing much pleasure at the visit and regretting that the shortness of their stay had interfered with a more complete ceremony, took their carriages and withdrew.

Pres. T. R. Smith Esq., was unavoidably absent, he being detained at Vancouver, and consequently was unable to be present at the ceremony of opening, much to the regret of his colleagues.

ROBSON BEFORE THE MINERS

"I Can See" Says He "How Badly My Legislation Works."

It had been expected that Mr. Robson would stop at Revelstoke on his return from Donald, but learning that it was his intention to pass through without calling a large delegation of miners and citizens intercepted him at the depot on Sunday evening and persuaded him to remain over till Monday and hold a public meeting to discuss the situation in regard to the minerals in the railway belt. The law regulating the matter had been received by Judge Tunstall only the day before, and had greatly surprised and alarmed the miners and prospectors.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. J. M. Kellie, and Mr. W. A. Jowett was chosen chairman, and Mr. F. Roeser appointed secretary.

The chairman welcomed Mr. Robson, thanking him for promptly acceding to the request of the delegation who solicited him to stay over, and then proceeded to state the terms of the law bearing upon the question, reading from the printed law.

Mr. J. M. Kellie being called on by the chairman to speak from the prospectors point of view, assured the Premier he did not come to either beg for favors or ask for concessions, but as a subject of the British realm he demanded British justice and asked that this monstrous imposition be immediately repealed by order-in-council; failing immediate action the miners would arise en masse and hurl into political oblivion the Robson administration. In strong and uncompromising language he assured the Premier that mining men would not tolerate any tampering with their rights and they would resist any legislative enactments that would wrench from them any rights or privileges they enjoyed as Britons. Mr. Kellie said he entered Kootenay in '84 preceding the iron horse, and since that time his interests have been centered in Kootenay, and he had endured untold hardship and privation in pursuit of his calling. The enforcement of these pernicious amendments to the Mineral Act meant a consideration of $800 in fees to the Government out of the pockets of himself and associates, as he was interested in eight mineral claims in the railway belt. In concluding his remarks he said he was determined these rotten restrictions should be repealed by an immediate order-in-council, failing which he pledged himself to use his best efforts to aid in hurling from their positions of trust the Robson Government.

Mr. J. W. Haskins said in substance: Concerning the railway acts the Government has left it with the railway companies to charge whatever they please for the land, and when the prospector and miner have demonstrated the value of the land on which their claims are located, in addition to the 5 per cent. royalty they will have to buy the land from the railroad and probably pay a high price to get it. This is class legislation and ought not to stand. It is, of course, very necessary that railway communication should be had to enhance the value of our lands and to open up the vast resources of the interior of the Province, without which it will not be inhabited in this generation. There are untold millions of money lying idle in London awaiting investment at a low rate of interest on good security, and if our Government would guarantee the interest for twenty years they could raise the money required to build these roads, and the Government would have, with which to pay the interest, the earnings of the roads, the proceeds of land sales and the income from the forests, instead of giving the lands and forests to railway syndicates, allowing them to charge the miners a high price for the Crown grant and on top of this the 5 per cent. royalty.

Mr. F. Roeser, who spoke at length said: The effect of the act will be almost prohibition to prospecting, because first: The prospector can very ill afford the payment of the $105, he being as a rule a very poor man; and secondly, experience in mining unfortunately proves that at least 90 per cent. of the mineral locations that are made are comparatively valueless, and therefore, out of 100 locations 90 payments of $105 each would have to be made, for which no return is received whatever.

Mr. J. W. Thomson severely censured the representatives from the mining districts for not vigorously opposing such legislation. It was prohibitory to the prospector.

Mr. S. H. Green, of Illecillewaet, made some remarks from the standpoint of a business man. The miners of the district cannot pay the $105 demanded, and would have to give up their claims and lose the labor expended on them for years, and the merchants whose prosperity depended upon that of the miners, would suffer with them.

Mr. T. L. Haig looked at the matter in the aspect with which capital would view it, and believed it would be regarded unfavorably. Its retrospective character was a very objectionable feature.

M. A. B. Elphinstone said, as a British subject recently arrived in the Dominion, he was surprised and grieved that such a law as they had met to discuss is now in operation. It has been already stated by previous speakers that the business of the prospector is completely destroyed by the operation of this law. In nine cases out of ten he would find it impossible to pay the enormous tax which is now demanded of him. So far as this country was concerned, he would no longer be able to earn a precarious livelihood; consequently there would be no more prospects for sale, and as a matter of course there will be no mines, and the most promising industry of the Mainland will be ruined.

Premier Robson was then invited by the chairman to address the meeting. He said he had listened with great interest to the speeches that had been made, and was exceedingly glad that he had come among us. Previous to his visit to Kootenay, and hearing the miners at Donald, as well as those of Revelstoke, state their views of the case, he had not known what grievances existed. He regretted that any of the speakers had indulged in threatening remarks, which did not tend to conciliation, but considered it natural that people should feel so. There was misapprehension existing as to the $105 required when a mineral claim was recorded. It was no profit to the Provincial Government, as some of the speakers stated and appeared to believe. The money paid was to go to the Dominion, and the Province was simply the medium made use of in transferring the moned from the miner to the Dominion. The Premier then gave a brief history of the railway belt given by the Province to the Dominion to assist in building the railway. The minerals were claimed by the Dominion which claim was resisted by the Province, and the question carried for final settlement to the Privy Council, which sustained the contention of the Province, giving to her the precious metals. The question was still complicated by the existence of base and precious metals in the same mine, and finding it impossible to administer upon them, negotiations were instituted with the Dominion and the present arrangement was the result. It was the best that could be obtained under the circumstances, but the Hon. Premier admitted that it was an unsatisfactory settlement, and imposed hardships upon the miners which ought not to be. He had not seen it as clearly as he did now, in the light of the explanations and discussions which this meeting had drawn out. He was sorry to hear denunciations of the Government and threats of hurling it from power, which some of the speakers had made. He was willing to admit that he had made a bad bargain, but he obtained the best information he could at Victoria. All matters relating to mining were referred to the committee on mining, which was composed of men well informed on that subject, and met their approval, and upon their decision and its ratification by the 27 members of the Legislative Assembly, he had relied. It applied only to the railway belt, and not to the whole country, as some speakers had intimated. He stated that he now had information which he did not have before, and should not lay a straw on the back of the prospector, saying, "I can see how badly it works, and that it will seriously retard mining in the railway belt. I candidly tell you that I will make immediate efforts to have it corrected; that I will place the matter before the Dominion Government, both by telegraph and by correspondence, and ask that the $105 shall not be required until the Crown grant is applied for. If, however, this cannot be accomplished, I ask if it would be more satisfactory to the miners present to go back to the Dominion as it had been before, rather than stand under the present Provincial law," and request them to express their opinion by a showing of hands. This they did almost unanimously, favoring a return to the Dominion. And the Hon. Premier therefore said that if he could not arrange it otherwise he would bring before his colleagues at Victoria the question of terminating the settlement made with the Dominion by giving notice to that effect, as both Governments had reserved the right to do, and to see if hereafter a more satisfactory settlement could not be arranged.—Kootenay Star.

PREMIER ROBSON

At New Westminster on the Defence—The Vile Columbian.

NEW WESTMINSTER, May 22.—Hon. John Robson addressed a very large audience last night at Herring's Opera House. The spacious hall was crowded to the door. D. S. Curtis occupied the chair. The speaker occupied the stage for two hours giving his views on public questions of the day. He stated that he was pledged to bring a new Redistribution bill after the census had been taken and repudiated the "balance power" theory. He defended the policy of the Government at some length with respect to railways and minerals. He read several extracts from the Columbian and characterized the statements made in that journal in reference to himself and the Government as misleading and false. He stated that he established the Columbian himself, published it successfully for a number of long years and was very much grieved now to find the vile uses to which it has been turned.
